Rising temperatures have become a major concern across many regions of the world. In the recent times, we have seen Australia suffering from severe heat wave. India is not an exception to this phenomenon. Indian summers have become very hot compared a few decades ago. The mean maximum temperature in April and May is 40 to 42-degree Celsius in many parts of the country. India is highly vulnerable to climate change. Our agriculture and economy are primarily dependent on monsoon rains. Their late arrival or deficiency in monsoon rains cause inflation to go high. Floods and drought have become more frequent these days. Regional variations in rainfall have become common. At places, we have heavy downpours, and in others, there is a long term drought. In our cities, we have a severe shortage of water. Pollution levels are alarmingly high. As of December 2018, we are the fourth highest emitter of carbon dioxide. It is the main driving factor for global warming. It is said that around 600 million people could be at risk from the effects of global warming. It is playing havoc and impacting the lives of millions by taking away their livelihoods.
